Tired of charging "smart" gadgets on vacation? This Smartwatch solves that Travelling is one of the greatest experiences on Earth...but it could be ruined by so many little things that slow you down. One of those things is gadgets with a poor battery, there is nothing worse than organizing a day out, solo or with company, and then realizing that an important gadget isn't charged. Now imagine that was your smartwatch?

You literally wouldn't know the time of day or know where your friends/family are without stress.

Smartwatch company NOWA has made a product that makes sure this doesn't happen...

They call it the NOWA SHAPER Smartwatch, and the reason it never dies is that the smartwatch features runs up to 8 months on a standard CR2025 battery. And if that doesn't impress you, the actual time mode runs for two years. To put that into perspective: Compared to Apple's Smartwatch the NOWA smartwatch has And that is just one of the ways that the NOWA Smartwatch can improve your life. To find out more about its sleek design and amazing features, visit this link: Nowa Smart Watches

The watches that easily beat Apple's "good looking" design

Apple is known for it's simple and sleek style, the style which has been the main selling point for the company since the beginning. However, when it comes to their Smart Watch...they have to swallow their pride.

Many people have posed the question, why is a watch able to take calls, record voice, hold important payment information AND track a person's heart rate... but it still looks like a shrunken Smart Phone tied to a wrist?

This argument is pretty strong and has in fact led to a whole new market: Hybrid Smartwatches

They are hybrids because they combine the good looks of normal watches with the great technology of smart watches. It is really just a win win situation. BUT WAIT... before you stop reading this and open another tab to buy there are some important things you need to know before you do:

1) Check if the watch is compatible with your current smartphone Some watches may be so advanced that they tend to ignore the older versions of either Android or IOS softwares. You should take this into account before clicking purchase on your chosen favorite.

2) Beware of watches with absolute minimal technology. Since hybrid watches are a bit of a grey area in terms of how much technology is best... some companies will put the absolute minimum level technology into the watch in order to make a greater profit. Buying this kind of watch is a no go zone as you are missing out on what it is truly like to experience the greatest parts of owning a hybrid smartwatch.

If you would like to avoid making a wrongful purchase; check out these reviews made by our specialist team which take not just these important factors into account, but also many other factors:
